Business process management uses various methods to discover, model, analyze, measure, improve, optimize, and automate business processes. BPM services provide members with certified BPM analysts to discover current business processes, optimize processes, and prepare for projects & migrations which will be affected by those processes.

Typical Use Cases

- An institution's HR department wishes to move to a new digital system, but must first map out current process and prepare to improve them after the system migration.
- An institution's registrar's office wishes to improve scheduling process and troubleshoot escalation, but doesn't have their current processes documented yet.
