Workday

Workday for Higher Education is a cloud-based enterprise resource planning (ERP) solution designed specifically for colleges and universities. It helps institutions manage core functions like finance, human resources, student services, and planning—all within a unified system. Workday is built to support the unique needs of higher education, including student recruitment, enrollment, advising, curriculum management, and financial aid. Its real-time data analytics and user-friendly interface empower both administrators and faculty to make informed decisions, improve operational efficiency, and enhance the student experience. Workday is particularly well-suited for institutions looking to modernize legacy systems and embrace a more agile, cloud-first approach.

IronBrick

Iron Brick Associates, LLC. was founded in 2006 as a Value-Added Reseller and solutions provider. Through excellence in software acquisition support, consulting delivery, and building key OEM partnerships, our firm has delivered large, successful programs across the Federal, SLED, and commercial markets for nearly twenty years. Our firm's primary mission is to help public sector organizations complete complex ERP acquisitions through simple, efficient and compliant acquisition cycles.

We have partnered with industry-leading OEMs such as Workday Inc., and certified, proven implementation firms to provide the best cloud ERP solutions available today.

Workday is the only ERP software provider to address the needs of the public sector through a clean-slate approach. Designed for today's mobile generation, Workday's suite of ERP applications spans finance, human capital management, payroll, grants, budgeting, and analytics to bring the entire organization together under one modern, agile, easy-to-use system delivered in the cloud.

The Workday solution offered to EdgeMarket members via Iron Brick Associates, provides secure, scalable, and efficient Software as a Service (SaaS) application capabilities designed to modernize payroll, human capital management, student information and financial operations, while delivering a future-ready, cloud-based solution that enhances functionality, improves operational efficiency, and supports long-term growth.
